

Perhaps you would like to retell the Journey to Emmaus using Lego figures or even your fingers as the people and a small patch of garden or a planter as the scene.

What landscape do you have to go through on the journey to get to the village?

What would you talk about on the way?

How do you meet the stranger?

What happens when you get to the village?

How do you feel when you realise the stranger is Jesus?

How is the journey back home different?

This week, with the sunshine many trees have gone from bud to full leaf. On a walk or from your window, you might like to spend some time just enjoying the fresh, newness of the colours, the shape of the leaves, how they have unfurled, or the strength and stature of a large tree.

What thoughts come up for you? Where do these ideas take you?

If you want to do something creative, leaves offer lots of possibilities for making pictures or patterns or with a little paint or playdough making prints.

You might like to bring something from the natural world that you have noticed inside, so that you can continue to enjoy it and reflect on it. It would be lovely if you shared it with us all on zoom.
